

I do not believe that telemarketing firms have the right to disturb the peace and quite of my household, especially after having spent the day at work.